

What's coming up with techPartner?

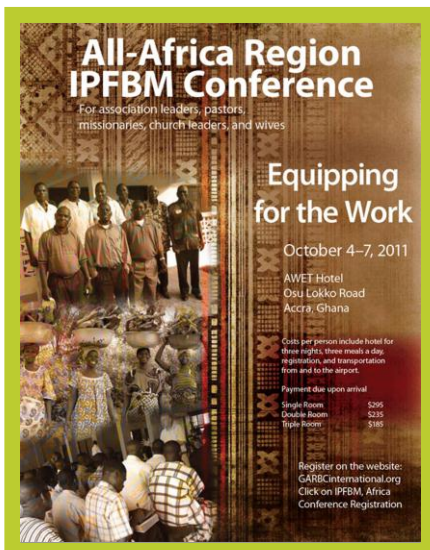

North American Missions Congress – Sept. 27-29, 2011

The NAMC is a conference designed to explore God's glory in missions among nations, cross-cultural church planting/ministries, missions partnerships, stewardship, and tent-making missions here in North America. It will be held at Crossroads Bible College in Indianapolis, Indiana. We will be coordinating the technology for the main sessions and many of the breakout sessions. We will also be coordinating a breakout for the use of technology in missions here in North America. You can see more information at <http://namc.partnersministry.com.ph/>

Ghana IPFBM conference – Oct. 1 – 10, 2011

In early October we will be sending Nathan Babcock (tP intern) to Ghana, West Africa. He will be helping the International Partnership of Fundamental Baptist Ministry regional conference. This is a conference designed to help equip church leaders, pastors, missionaries and laymen in effective church ministries. TechPartner will help oversee and execute all technology needs for the sessions, training these leaders with effective technology usage, and interact one-on-one for specific technology needs on this mission field. We will also be giving away a laptop and two digital video projectors for ministry use there in Ghana. We will be using these tools during the conference and then giving them away to leaders who show a specific need for these tools. We currently have a brand new laptop (donated by an individual), and will be looking for financial donations from others to help purchase the projectors to take with us. An Awana club will be helping to purchase these projectors to give away. Along with those needs, we also need to raise around $1500 to cover the airfare for Nathan as he travels to help with this very important conference.

Here is a word from the IPFBM conference director -
“Putting on a conference in Africa without a media expert could be disastrous. Knowing that techPartner will take care of the sound system, projectors, manage PowerPoint, and troubleshoot in the event of problems brings me a lot of peace of mind. I also appreciate their contribution in training nationals to be more effective in their use of media.”
 Chris Hindal – Director of GARBC International

On the Brown Home Front:

- Our kids are back to school (Kara 8th, Lauryn 6th, Dax 1st)
- Cole has conquered our slide in our tree house
- Kara is involved in volleyball, and Lauryn is in soccer
- Piano lessons will be underway soon
- Family “beach” vacation with Amy’s entire family soon to be upon us

Cole – my little techie (traveling can be tiring)

We continue to help missionaries, church planters, international pastors with technology tools, websites, and resources for ministry. I want to thank all those who continually support us on a monthly basis. We are currently in need of finding churches interested in partnering with us for ministry. Please spread the word about techPartner. Thanks again for your prayer support. It is our desire that techPartner is a ministry that glorifies God, and effectively helps others carry out the Great Commission.

Nathan Babcock – Intern

Back in the office after a great summer of ministry at camp. He is back in full swing of helping churches and missionaries with technology. He is currently working on an interactive missionary display web portal to help churches keep up-to-date with each of their missionaries.

He also will be traveling to Africa in October, and we need to raise $1500 for travel expenses.

The Internship will conclude at the end of October, and he is currently considering heading back to Faith Baptist Bible College to further his ministry training.
